COMMISSION PLAN STRENGTHENS CREDIT

An incident occurred a day or two ago that shows the attitude of the business world towards the two forms of city government. W. H. Altman, treasurer and traveling representative of the Hardwick-Etter Hardware Co. of Sherman, Tex., who makes Ada very frequently, stated that his company never seeks business from a city government if it is under the aldermanic form. "We can't afford to take chances on waiting six months for a warrant and then another six to get the money on it," he explained. The few houses that do solicit business from these cities always add twenty-five per cent to make good on the delays that usually follow the payment of the accounts. This is a fact that has been thoroughly demonstrated in certain Texas towns that have entered into the commission form. The supply houses at once seek the business of these towns, for as Mr. Altman explains, the adoption of the commission plan at once establishes the confidence and credit of the business public in the corporation.

No Paper Thursday.

The News will join with other business institutions of Ada in observing Thanksgiving Day. The office force will take holiday and no paper issued. The weekly will be published tomorrow morning so that it will be out of the way before the holiday.

WITH THE CITY COUNCILMEN

There were six councilmen and the mayor present at the regular meeting last night. Byrds Mill water, and asphalt were the topics for discussion for the greater part of two hours.

The letter from Dana H. Kelsey, Indian commissioner at Muskogee stating that the department of the interior had removed the restrictions on the ninety acres of land belonging to Gabriel Brown and that a deed to the land upon which the Byrds Mill springs are situated would be executed to the city of Ada upon the forthcoming of a check covering the contract price, $7,500, was read.

A motion that the council signify their willingness to purchase the property subject to the ratification of the people was made and carried but not without strong opposition on the part of Councilman Grigsby who protested that the council was without authority to act officially on the matter at present.

The city engineer was called upon to give his opinion as to the time requisite for him to make an estimate of the work, material and expense necessary in getting the water to Ada, this estimate having to be made before bonds could be voted on. Mr. Ekman stated that he would wire for Engineer Goodwin of Kansas City to meet him here in consultation at once and that he was sure a preliminary estimate could be ready by next Monday night.

The next matter of importance was the street paving, a communication from the Shelby Downard Co. was read in which was stated in substance that they were willing to execute their contract which called for the use of as much Pontotoc material as possible; that they would be perfectly willing to use all material out of Pontotoc county if they could be directed to the asphalt which would make a pavement that would meet the specifications. After a good deal of discussion the contract, specifications, rock asphalt, asphaltic lime rock, bitumen, sand stone, coarse grained and fine grained, percentage, water tests, knife tests, good pavement vs. other pavements, the cost of production of asphalt, the characteristics of asphalt deposits, a motion to instruct the engineer to order the Shelby Downard Co. proceed with the work according to contract finally prevailed.

M. D. Chapel has gone to Shawnee where he will probably make his future home.

FIRE ALARM THIS MORNING

Shortly before noon a fire alarm was turned in from the red gin. The fire boys responded, hooking onto the plug near the Frisco as they passed. When they arrived it was found that the fire was out and their services were not needed. Fire caught in the second gin stand and passed into the condenser and press, but prompt action on the part of the employees put it out with the loss of only a few pounds of cotton.

To Put Out Democratic Ticket.

As will be seen in another column, there will be a meeting held at the court house this evening to put a straight democratic ticket in the field for the board of freeholders. Unless we are much mistaken the law requires that all names going before a primary must be filed with the county election board at least ten days before the date set. As that time has passed it might give some of the new men a little trouble to get on the ticket, but we don't suppose any objection will be raised to all comers going on the primary ticket.

Gift for Epworth League.

Sulphur, Ok., Nov. 19.—The Epworth League assembly of the East and West conferences of Oklahoma has accepted from J. D. Ramsey a donation of $3,000 worth of land in the Ramsey Lake addition to Sulphur. Permanent improvements will be erected and the ground put in readiness for next summer's state encampment. The Methodists are negotiating with Mr. Ramsey for another tract upon which to erect homes for superannuated preachers.

Cotton Unchanged.

This morning the cotton market opened about fifteen or sixteen points below the high mark at which it closed yesterday, but during the day regained what it lost and closed about the same as yesterday. The Ada market stood around 14.25.

CALL FOR MEETING OF DEMOCRATS

To the Democracy of the City of Ada, Oklahoma:

Whereas, it appears that a portion of the citizens of the city of Ada, Oklahoma, have met in a mass meeting and nominated a non-partisan ticket to write a proposed charter for the city of Ada, and

Whereas, the nominees of said meeting are equally divided between the republicans and democrats, and that among the said nominees the name of the president of the biggest corporation, and the biggest privileged seeker of any corporation, also the name of the manager of the Electric Light company that receives more than one-half of the taxes of the city of Ada, and a great franchise and privilege seeker, also the name of a promoter and real estate dealer that would receive great benefits by the extension of water mains, electric light lines and the building of bridges and culverts to his additions to the town of Ada, rather than to other additions, and also the name of an attorney that represents the Pioneer Telephone Company a great franchise and privilege seeker, and the Cement company, and

Whereas, it appears that the rank and file of the democracy in the city of Ada, protests against the turning over of any of the business of said city to the privilege seeking corporations and other interests and to the republican party, but prefer that all the business of said city be intrusted to the unprivileged seeking democracy of said city,

Therefore, a convention of the unadulterated democrats who stand for the benefit of the masses rather than the classes is hereby called to meet at the court house in the city of Ada, on the night of the 22nd day of November, 1910, at 7:30 p. m. to nominate a purely democratic non-privileged seeking ticket.

CARNIVAL COMPANY READY FOR BUSINESS

The worst delay that has occurred since the carnival company came in is in digging the pit for the water into which the trick pony dives. The soil is of such a nature that it is hard to handle, but they have finally made it and everything is in trim to show. The company was at El Reno last week and the El Reno Democrat says of it:

The Carnival company located on the vacant lots just west of the Kerr-ford attracted a good sized crowd last night despite the cold weather, and everyone was well pleased with the performances and attractions. At 9 o'clock the diving horse, June, made the big splash into the watery pit, and did so very successfully. The main ten includes exhibitions of several kinds of animals including badgers, porcupines, armadillos, snakes, and a devil fish. One of the attractions on the west side is the wild Mexican girl who lives among a large number of snakes, one of which is a monster. The wild creature seems perfectly happy with the slimy crawling things wrapped about her. The boxing kangaroo is a good feature and does the glove stunt like an old pugilist. He has gloves on his four feet and when he strikes he perches on his tail and gives force with all of his feet. He boxes with a lady and the fight is interesting. The little horse, Dixie, is reputed to be the smallest horse in the world. It is over four years old, and is a cross between a broncho and a Shetland pony. There are many attractions at the carnival, is under good management and well worthy of patronage.

Wisdom of Dusty Dan.

She brought him out a wedge of pumpkin pie and a cup of coffee.

"And you only visit this section of the country during golden rod time?" she interrogated innocently. "How poetical!"

"Well, you see, mum, it isn't exactly poetical," replied Dusty Dan with a smile, "but when the golden-rod blooms it is too late to cut grass and too early to shovel snow."

BERT VADEN DIES AT ROFF

BLOW FROM BILLARD CUE SAT-URDAY MORNING PROVES FATAL.

Bert Vaden, the son of Capt. J. W. Vaden at Roff, died this morning at 4 o'clock from the effects of a blow on the head received Saturday morning about 1 o'clock.

Sheriff Smith was called to Roff yesterday to investigate the occurrence, states that Vaden and John Jenkins had some difference in a pool hall and that Jenkins is said to have struck him over the head with a billiard cue, knocking him down. A bystander prevented further trouble and Vaden walked away, apparently not much hurt. Later, however, he began suffering from the effects of the blow and grew worse until this morning.

Jenkins left for the south on the afternoon Frisco Saturday afternoon and is thought to have gone to Sherman or Denison.

WATER SITUATION BECOMING SERIOUS

The water situation at Ada threatens to become serious. The supply in the reservoir will last but two or three weeks more and work on the old well on the north side has not been completed yet. The city authorities have notified the cement plant, oil mill, stock yard, gins and other heavy users of water that they are to be cut off in a few days. Nothing except a rain will save the situation.

Duncan Oil Mill After Bootleggers.

The Duncan Oil Co. is up in arms and is offering a $50 bill for information that will lead to the detection and conviction of any party, bootlegger or otherwise, that sells any liquor, tangle-foot, red-eye, salvation oil, essence of barb wire, Kentucky Dew, snake bite remedy, rot gut, or any distillation, brew, trituration, essence or tincture, of either fruit, corn, wheat, rye, oats baled hay broom corn, jimson weeds, or anything that is calculated to make the drunk come to one of its employees while on the property of said company. It is the sober man who is wanted in these industrial days, and young man, if you expect to get on in this world you must eschew whiskey and beer and drink—alcohol, or melted lead, or coal tar, or paregoric, or red ink, or coca cola, or some other mild and enervating decoction. Booze and business are antipodal, and when you conclude that the two will work tandem it will not be long before you are hammering at the gates of hell seeking admission.—Duncan Eagle.

OKLAHOMA SHOULD FEEL THANKFUL.

As Thanksgiving approaches and visions of turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie dance before our eyes, we pause a moment to consider the past year and the things we have reason to be thankful for.
It has been a number of years since the people of this section sat down to eat their Thanksgiving dinners with the feeling of contentment that prevails at present. With debts paid, many badly needed comforts of life
provided to make living easier, and with a surplus in the bank, the Oklahoman of these parts can indeed feel at peace with himself and his fellow man as he sits down with his family and craves the big fat turkey.

This has indeed been an ideal year for us. The weather has been favorable for the growing of all kinds of crops and an abundant harvest has resulted. Good prices have prevailed and no industrious man untouched by some bodily affliction, has any reason to feel otherwise than thankful.
We of Ada have seen a steady and substantial growth of our little city.
We have seen it gathering strength as time passed on. Labor has been plentiful for him who sought it, and the town has shared the prosperity of the country districts.

The year has, we fondly believe,
marked the turning point in the town's history. Before us opens a magnificent future. With the business, social, religious and educational advantages we have here, the writer feels that the fact he is a citizen of Ada is in itself something to be thankful for.

Any business in which a dishonest or incompetent officer cannot be "fired" must of necessity go to the wall. Yet, that is the condition in Oklahoma. No way seems to have been devised for shaking one loose from his job, whether elected or appointed. These very features could be put into a charter for the city, and the
a man would be compelled to come across or get out of the way. Business ability would be the criterion.

The special session coming so soon after the election will give the candidates for the speakership a very limited time in which to get their forces lined up. Some fun is in sight.

"We never miss the water till the well runs dry," says the old proverb.
Unless a gully-washing rain comes during the next few days Ada will have the opportunity to see just how badly she needs an adequate supply.
The action of the council in shutting off the supply of all the various industries of the town means the suspension of a payroll of several thousand dollars per week. As this is money coming from the outside, it is just that much lost to the trade of Ada. With this lesson brought home to us there should be no doubt about the bond issue carrying for the Byrds Mill proposition. If we cannot supply what we have here now, it is certain that we shall never get any more industries while the water supply is uncertain.

The theory once prevailed that the world is flat, but that theory did not alter the fact that it is round. We have heard the theory advanced that the legislative and executive branches of the city government should be kept separate because that is the theory
of republican form of government, but that does not alter the fact that the commission plan has proved most successful wherever tried. The few failures it has made are only the exceptions that establish the rule.

The lumber dealers of Ada report that their sales for houses to be built out in the country are heavy now and as the end of the cotton season approaches grows still heavier.
It is plain that Pontotoc county is fast passing from the log cabin epoch
to that of comfortable and well built houses with modern conveniences.

Commission government is carrying the day in all the more progressive towns of Oklahoma. The question is up to Ada whether she will join them or drop back among the one horse places.

The Runners.

For I run not alone,
There run with me the Silent Three.
Through fields the dead have sown.

One with a sweet and piteous smile—
The tireless Past—ah, he will last
For many a footsore mile.

And one, the Now—with stern, white gaze—
Who gives no heed though I do bleed
Along the thorny ways.

One with masked face, lips dumb,
Beckons my soul to some blind goal—
The wraith of Things to Come.

Nay, I run not alone,
There run with me the Silent Three.
Through fields the dead have sown.

Why They Married.

An editor sent out circulars to a large number of married men asking why they married. Here are some of the excuses:

I didn't intend to do it.
Because I didn't have the experience I have now.

I married to get even with her mother, but never have.

That's what I have been trying for eleven years to find out.

I yearned for company. Now I have it all the time.

I thought it would be cheaper than
a breach of promise suit.

I wanted a companion of the opposite. N. B. She is still opposite.

Because I asked her if she would have me and she said she would. I think she's got me.

I was lonely and melancholy and wanted some one to make me lively.
She makes me very lively.—Ex.

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend
D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.
Because—D. D. D. starts the cure
at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—It cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—It enables Nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D.
D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

MOTORCYCLE IS HOME-MADE

Frame of Machine Shown in Illustration
Is Made From Gas Pipe and Pipe Fittings.

The frame of this motorcycle is double throughout and made from three-quarter and one inch gas pipe and pipe fittings. A piece of round iron was inserted in the pipes at each bend to make sure of a rigid frame. No threads were cut on the pipe and the tees used for the cross ties were reamed out, slipped over the pipes and fastened with a pin, writes J. O. Turner in Popular Mechanics.

very light runabout. The belt wheel attached to the rear wheel is made from band iron and attached with lugs to the rim. This belt wheel is peened with a hammer in the center to make the crown. A double-ply two-inch flat leather belt is used to drive the machine. The rear wheel is fitted with a hatchet sprocket, so the engine may be started by peddling.
The complete motorcycle weighs 310 pounds, has a 70-inch wheel base, 26-inch wheels and a four-horsepower engine.

CLEVER TRICK VERY AMUSING

Produces Great Deal of Merriment and Needs No Apparatus—Looks Like Jumping Jack.

This is a genuine bit of fun that demands no apparatus, and every one can do it. Place yourself by the side of a mirrored wardrobe, as in the illustration, in such a way that half your body is concealed, the other half projecting from the wardrobe. As for the person standing on the other side, at a certain distance it will appear to them that they behold you entirely,
the illusion being caused by one-half being reflected, says Magical Experi- ments.

A Good Trick.

When you lift your leg, the appearance given by means of the mirror is that of a person who lifts both feet from the ground at once and holds them in the air—a rather startling apparition. You will look like a toy jumping jack which is operated by a string, and the more you move your leg and arm the funnier you will look.

IT IS YOU?

There is a child, a boy or girl—
I'm sorry it is true—
Who doesn't mind when spoken to;
Is it you? It can't be you!

I know a child, a boy or girl—
I'm loth to say I do—
Who struck a little playmate child;
I hope that wasn't you!

I know a child, a boy or girl—
I hope that such are few—
Who told a lie; yes, told a lie;
It cannot be 'twas you!

There is a boy, I know a boy—
I cannot love him through—
Who robs the little bird's nest;
That bad boy can't be you!

A girl there is, a girl I know,
And I could love her, too;
But that she is so proud and vain;
That surely isn't you!

Squelching a Young Officer.
Some years ago Queen Maud of Norway was staying with the late Queen Victoria at Osborne, and went to a bazar at Shanklin, where she was assisting at one of the stalls. Presently a young military officer walked up to the stall and making some small purchase tried hard to get into conversation with her royal highness.
His efforts failed, but he made one last effort: "I am sure I know you," he said, "do you people live about here?"
"No, I am staying with my grandmother," was the princess' reply. "Oh, I dare say I know her, then; I know
most of the people about here," said
the officer, rather patronizingly.
"What's her name, by the way, I will look her up?" "Queen Victoria," was the reply.

Totsie.

Mr. Croxton at Normal Chapel this Morning.

It was a most delightful "talk" as well as most earnest. The heart of the speaker was in it from start to finish. Mr. Croxton read his text from the Bible, because the Bible contains all that is good. He directed the first part of his talk to the neglected part of his audience in the chapel exercises—the teachers. The teacher is not a common workman, but works on better material, and therefore his vocation is a high one, a holy one, a divine one. It is his duty to fill it full, to magnify, enlarge it. The teacher makes lasting and moral impressions. His two duties to student is to have him discover himself after he has laid well the foundation of his life's education. God appoints each one for some special work, it is the duty of the teacher to have the pupil find his life work. Failures come because we are in the wrong place, not because we do not work in the place where we are.

What is Education? It must include: 1. Knowledge. 2. Undertaking. 3. Wisdom. These three are in the foundation stones of education. God recommends them. Life demands we have them. We must not only know things, but understand their relation to other things, and their history, their descent, their origin. We must not only know all these but we must know how to use all this knowledge aright—this is wisdom.

An educated man should be a gentleman. One of the important things which the student is to learn in school is good manners, how to be polite and agreeable to every one. He must learn tact and courtesy. Common, uneducated folks can say ugly things, and do ugly deeds. It requires no education to say cutting things, to criticize folks; but it often requires much education to keep from saying ugly, cutting and criticising things. Here and now is the time to learn politeness. It is still true as the ancients said, as quoted by Paul, "Evil communications corrupt good manners."

We are making progress. My father studied Metaphysics, I studied Mental Philosophy, you study Psychology. The latter is better. I never like or believed "metaphysics" We must learn to pay attention, and that with the whole mind. We can understand nothing without giving it attention sufficient to correlate it to all other things.

We must learn the art of: 1. Living together and 2. Working together. Each one goes to his work, his own work, and yet it is a part of the whole. Work is the greatest thing in the world, the thing which conquers all other things, but it conquers only as we know how to work together.

If I were in school again I would change my plans somewhat. When in school I gave all my time to my books, my English, my French, my German, my Greek, my Hebrew. Now if I were in school I would not allow my books and my study to interfere with getting an education. I would "get acquainted with my teachers and my associate pupils. After all this is what pays us in every way. The world demands "mixability."

Here are splendid folks you should know. These teachers and students are good people, and you will need them again in life. Get acquainted with them. Know folks. Mix with your associates and learn them through and through. Everywhere you go you will need to use this knowledge and to further mix and mingle with people.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivalled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Many Patents for Edison.

In a recent number of the Electrical World, there is an article on the patents of Thomas Edison. His first patent was secured in June, 1869, on an electrographic vote recorder. Since then 905 patents have been issued to him, 713 of which pertain to electrical apparatus. His greatest activity was in the years 1881 and 1882, when he was concerned with the development of the incandescent lamp and power machinery. In 1882 he was granted 75 patents, and the year before he secured 69 patents. From 1890 to 1892 there was another period of activity, as shown by the number of his patents, which was 65, 32, and 65, respectively, these being devoted mainly to the phonograph and to electric light and power machinery. Considering all the patents that are probably pending patents that were withdrawn and patents not yet filed but in the course of preparation, it is estimated that the number of Edison's inventions is close to 2,000.—Scientific American.

Grandfather Test Case in Supreme Court.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Eleven days after election Joseph Atwater, an Oklahoma negro, Saturday filed in the supreme court of the United States an appeal from the decision of the Oklahoma courts in which they refused to enjoin election officials of Oklahoma City from denying him the right to vote on November 8.

This petition is based on the claim that the "grandfather clause" placed in the Oklahoma state constitution by an amendment, is invalid because it would deny the right to vote to a large number of negroes in the state, entirely on account of their color or previous condition of servitude.

Escape in Falls From High Places.

On the ground that falls from great height, not necessarily fatal, are becoming so frequent in these days of aeroplaning, the Lancet, one of the foremost British medical periodicals, refers in the current issue to a number of remarkable falls which have been recorded. One of the cases cited has to do with a man who recently fell from the top of a Dover cliff, four hundred feet high. He was picked up insensible in about five feet of water, but his boots were off, and it is argued that he must have retained sufficient consciousness after striking the water to have pulled them off his feet.

Among classic English falls is mentioned that of a "steeplejack," who in 1880 fell from the top of the Church of St. George in Bolton-le-Moors to the ground, a distance of one hundred and twenty feet. The man's skull, so it is authoritatively affirmed, struck some sheet lead on the earth and left marks of its impact on it, but, though the fall was quite unbroken, the man was only slightly injured and resumed work in a few days. Mons. Manzini, a French observer, is referred to as the authority concerning a remarkable fall which occurred in 1841.

"The victim," says the Lancet, "was a tapissier who had been engaged in putting up the decorations on the occasion of the belated obsequies of Napoleon I, in the lofty dome of the church of the Invalides in Paris. When busy moving a ladder on the top of a high scaffolding he overbalanced himself and in obedience to some obscure instinct jumped clear of the ladder and the platform. He fell eighty-two feet, bounding in one place off the roof of a little dome, which caused him to describe a second parabola in the air, and land finally, feet first, on the slate roof of a small sacristy. Crashing through the slates, he landed astride a rafter, where he was found sitting, surprised but coherent, for he was able to give his name and address when asked for them. He had no recollection of this, and became unconscious when put to bed shortly afterward under the care of the great Pasquier. His insensibility lasted a very short time, and at the end of a month he was well.

Children's Shoes.

Children are often made uncomfortable by being obliged to wear shoes that are either too large or too small. The mistake is made in buying. An experienced shoe man who had made children's shoes a special study advises that the child wear thick stockings when trying on shoes. In many cases the child will wear his "best" hose, which are thinner than those for every day, and then the new shoes will be a trifle too tight when worn with the thicker pair. Buy as good leather as you can afford, but it is not wise to buy the most expensive shoes, for the child may outgrow them. The shoe dealer above quoted says that a shoe with a wide, flat, low heel is better for a child than the heelless shoe, since children usually put the heel of the foot down heavily when walking. "Each child," he says, "should be taught to take care of their shoes. When the shoes have been wet they should be wiped dry, stuffed with paper to hold their shape, put in a warm place and rubbed with vaseline to keep the leather soft.

Stop coughing! you rack the lungs and worry the body. Ballard's Horehound Syrup checks irritation, heals the lungs and restores comfortable breathing. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Ramsey Drug Co.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Thomas Collier Platt Was a Genuine Humorist.

Two Stories About the "Easy Boss" That Demonstrate His Wit and Capacity for Humorous Description.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

The late Thomas C. Platt spoke of himself at one time as the "easy boss." He was easy in still another sense than that in which he used the word, and that was in his sense of humor and his capacity for humorous description and anecdote. He was a shining exception to the saying that the politically ambitious see things only through serious spectacles.

One day, some years ago, as I was passing through the porter's room of the old Fifth Avenue hotel, Senator Platt's headquarters in New York city, I heard some one call me by name, and looking around, saw Senator Platt beckoning to me from his seat on a boot-black stand.

"Take this vacant chair beside me," he said, "and while the good boy below, who is a loyal follower of Tom Platt, is putting the finishing touches upon my calfskins, I will tell you of an amusing experience I had this morning.

"Do you remember John M. Forbes? He is a very rich merchant and a very dignified man, distinguished for his political sagacity, his rather pronounced self-esteem and his somewhat prominent nose. As I stepped into the barber shop of the hotel this morning who should I see yielding to the ministrations of the barber but John M. Forbes. I recognized him by the conspicuousness with which his nose stood out above the lather. So I stepped up to him and said: 'Good morning, Mr. Forbes, I am glad to see you in such experienced hands. Politics and business must be very satisfactory in Boston.'

"Instantly the man pushed the barber aside, sat up straight in the chair, and turned to me a face so well lathered that I could only see the nose and eyes.

"'Sir,' he exclaimed, indignantly, 'I don't know who you are, but I want to tell you that John M. Forbes has not a monopoly of the prominent nose, and though I have sometimes been taken for him when persons have seen me in profile, yet I have never before been recognized as Mr. Forbes when my face was all lathered and awaiting the barber's razor!'

Senator Platt chuckled violently. "Do you know," he said at last, "that is a good one on my friend John M. Forbes; and I shall relate it with special gratification to some of the elite Republicans of Massachusetts who have been much associated with him in reforming politics."

Upon another occasion Mr. Platt was called upon at his hotel in Washington by a gentleman who professed to be very anxious to see General Howard Carroll, who some years earlier had been Republican candidate for congressman at large from New York state, and who was a very intimate friend of President Arthur. His visitor asked the senator where "General Carroll" could be found.

"What General Carroll do you mean?" asked Mr. Platt.

"Why," was the reply, "I mean Howard Carroll—General Howard Carroll."

"Ah," replied the senator, blandly, "had you spoken in the first instance of Howard Carroll instead of General Carroll, I should have known whom you meant."

"Why, what is the difference?" asked the senator's friend.

"Just this," was the reply, "I always speak and think of him as Howard Carroll. You see, God made the man, while I made the general, and out of consideration for his maker I always refer to him as Howard Carroll, regarding God's work with respect to him as of much higher consequence than my own. Other people are less reverential. They speak of him as the general I made rather than as the man whom God created."

Within a week this characteristic Platonian jest had circulated through all the public circles in Washington and at last reached the ears of General Carroll himself, who to this day delights in telling it.

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

Cliff Climber's Narrow Escape.

The perils of cliff climbing were instanced the other day by the remarkable escape of a young man named Frank Egan who, while scaling the steep cliffs just beyond the Bailey Lighthouse on the Irish coast, got to a perpendicular part, and being unable to get another hold could neither get up nor down, and was practically suspended by his fingers some seventy feet above the sea. Egan's companion, seeing his position, at the risk of his own neck scrambled down the face of the cliff, and gave the alarm. Coastguards promptly arrived on the scene, and one was lowered by a rope to the edge of the cliff, but owing to its overhanging nature he was unable to get a glimpse of the man. The roaring of the waves made it impossible to get an answer to repeated shouts. One man managed to get on to a projecting bank, and was just in time to see Egan sliding and slipping down the side of the rocks. Hanging for close on an hour, he was unable to hold any longer, and lost his grip, but by extraordinary good fortune he struck on a small ledge some feet below, and thence to the bottom the descent was less precipitous. Beyond a few scratches and exhaustion, and a severe shock, Egan escaped injury.
